- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

High pressure off the coast of Northwestern California will continue to be dry with seasonable temperatures into the middle of next week. Sunshine inland with some overnight and morning clouds can be expected along portions of the coast north of the Cape and the lower portion of the Eel River.

San Francisco Weather:

Little change in the weather is expected through Tuesday. Areas of night and morning low clouds and fog will mostly be limited coastal areas. Inland areas will remain warm and dry. An upper level trough will move into Northern California by midweek, bringing much cooler temperatures to inland areas. There is also a slight chance of rain across the northern portion of the San Francisco Bay Area on Wednesday night and Thursday.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

Sacramento Weather:

Seasonal temperatures can be expected through Tuesday with locally breezy winds in the Delta and over higher terrain. A trough brings a threat of showers and thunderstorms to Northern California Wednesday through Friday.

Hanford Weather:

High pressure will dominate Central California resulting in above normal afternoon temperatures through at least the middle of next week. A storm system will move into Northern California during the second half of next week bringing a significant cooling trend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Temperatures will remain near normal through early next week. A warm up is expected for areas away from the coast on Tuesday and Wednesday as high pressure builds in from the southwest.

Temperatures will return to near normal for the second half of next week as a trough of low pressure develops. Night through morning low clouds and fog will continue for parts of the coast.

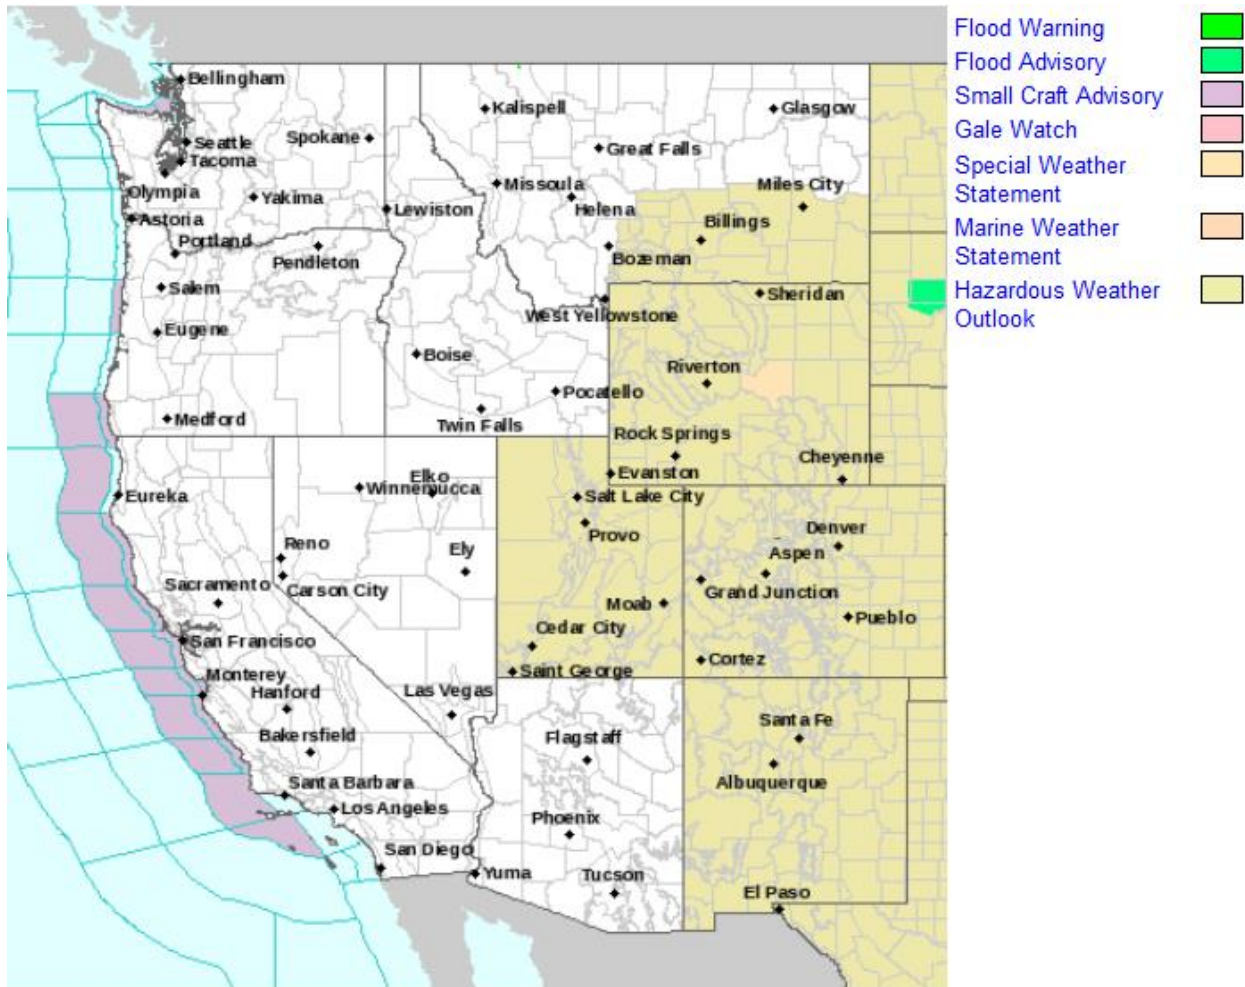

Extreme Southwestern California Including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

A weak low pressure system moving inland through the west will bring stronger onshore flow through Monday with minor cooling. Warmer temperatures are predicted for Tuesday and Wednesday under weak high pressure. Another trough of low pressure moving inland along the west coast will bring stronger onshore flow for Thursday and Friday with cooling.

Southeast California Weather:

Slightly above normal afternoon temperatures are forecast through Thursday. By the end of the week, a stronger Pacific low pressure system is forecast to move into Southwestern California resulting in breezy to windy conditions and cooler below normal temperatures Friday and Saturday.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue without substantial rainfall, severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

*As our state's rainy season comes to an end, it is highly unlikely that precipitation totals will increase significantly. This winter's below average rain and snowfall worsens conditions in this third straight dry year.

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

- The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.
- The final manual snowpack survey of the season was conducted on Thursday (May 1) and showed California snowpack at 18% of normal.
- DWR has announced that water essential for health and safety will be delivered through the state water project. The current State Water Project Allocation is 5%.
- Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.
